Notable features:

The face of this block begins with the back building of 1200 W. Lexington Street, which is a dwelling (now apartments) with a formally treated door on Carrollton Avenue. It is a house of the late 1850's, as are numbers 204-208, with their characteristic simple cornice, overdoor treatment like those on Lexington Street, but narrower and so less pretentious houses than the latter, with high steps. Number 206 has been formstoned.

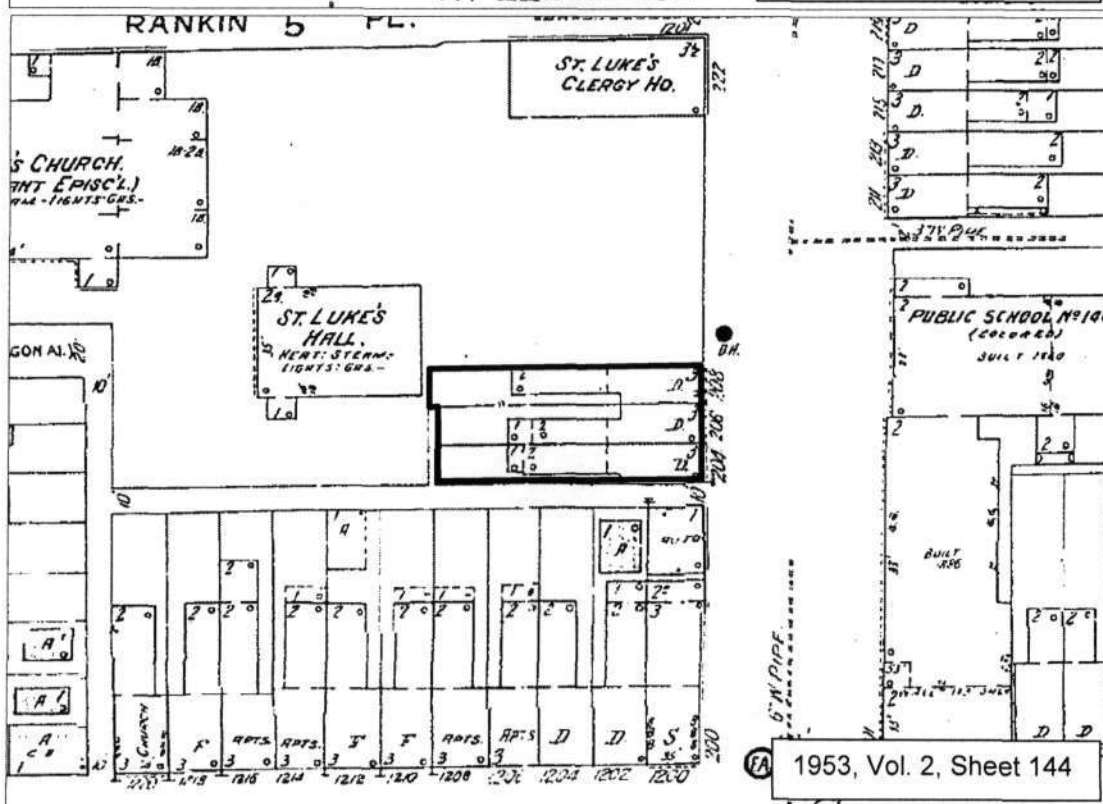

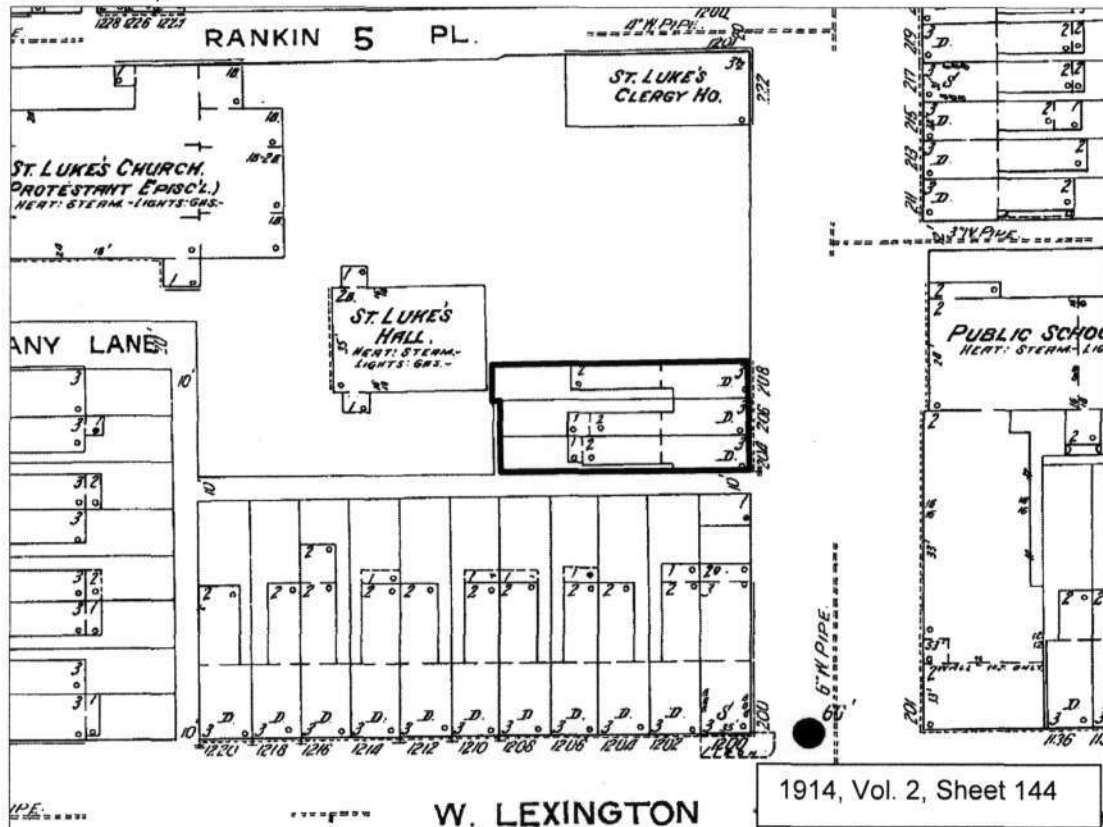

Environmental context:

Number 208 is vacant. The row is pleasantly situated adjacent to St. Luke's garden and wall. The street is wide and across it is now boarded-up school #140. Street trees are needed.
